Featuring 25 beautiful Caldera spa Installations

YOUR CALDERA® SPAS SWEET SPOT

The entries from our Sweet Spot Photo Contest are in!

While it wasn't an easy task, we've selected 25 of our favorite entries to share. Each hot tub installation is a space where someone has carved out a magical place for relaxation and renewal. Whether your hot tub is nestled near shade trees or set into a redwood deck, it's a place where you can go for daily renewal. It's your place. Thank you to all the contributors for sharing part of your life with us.

Lake Washington evening glow

Yes, you really can put a hot tub on a boat dock. Imagine watching the sun set over the lake's distant shore. This beautiful spot is a nautical spin on the phrase "backyard retreat."

James | Seattle, WA

Caldera winter wonderland

Will a hot tub hold up in a winter blizzard? The shoveled path on this deck leads directly to the hot tub—proving what every Caldera spa owner already knows: hot tubbing after a fresh snowfall is one of the best ways to enjoy winter weather.

Rosanne | Alexandria, VA

Garden sanctuary

White hydrangeas create an inviting hot tub entrance in this bucolic English garden. The spa fits perfectly into the lush backyard design – the resort-style retreat is an idyllic setting for daily renewal in a Caldera spa.

Paul | Canton, MI

 CalderaSpas®

Mountain view resort

Time spent in your Caldera hot tub is all about positive personal change. From this spot, it's also possible to experience and appreciate the natural, seasonal changes around you, all while you're enjoying the relaxing warmth of a hot tub massage.

Mitchell | Red Wing, MN

Our backyard utopia

Utopia is defined as an “ideal state or place.” It’s also what we call our finest line of Caldera Spas luxury hot tubs. And in this beautiful backyard setting, the word is an apt description. Utopia: it’s the ideal place for the perfect hot tub, a place that can lead to the ideal state of mind.

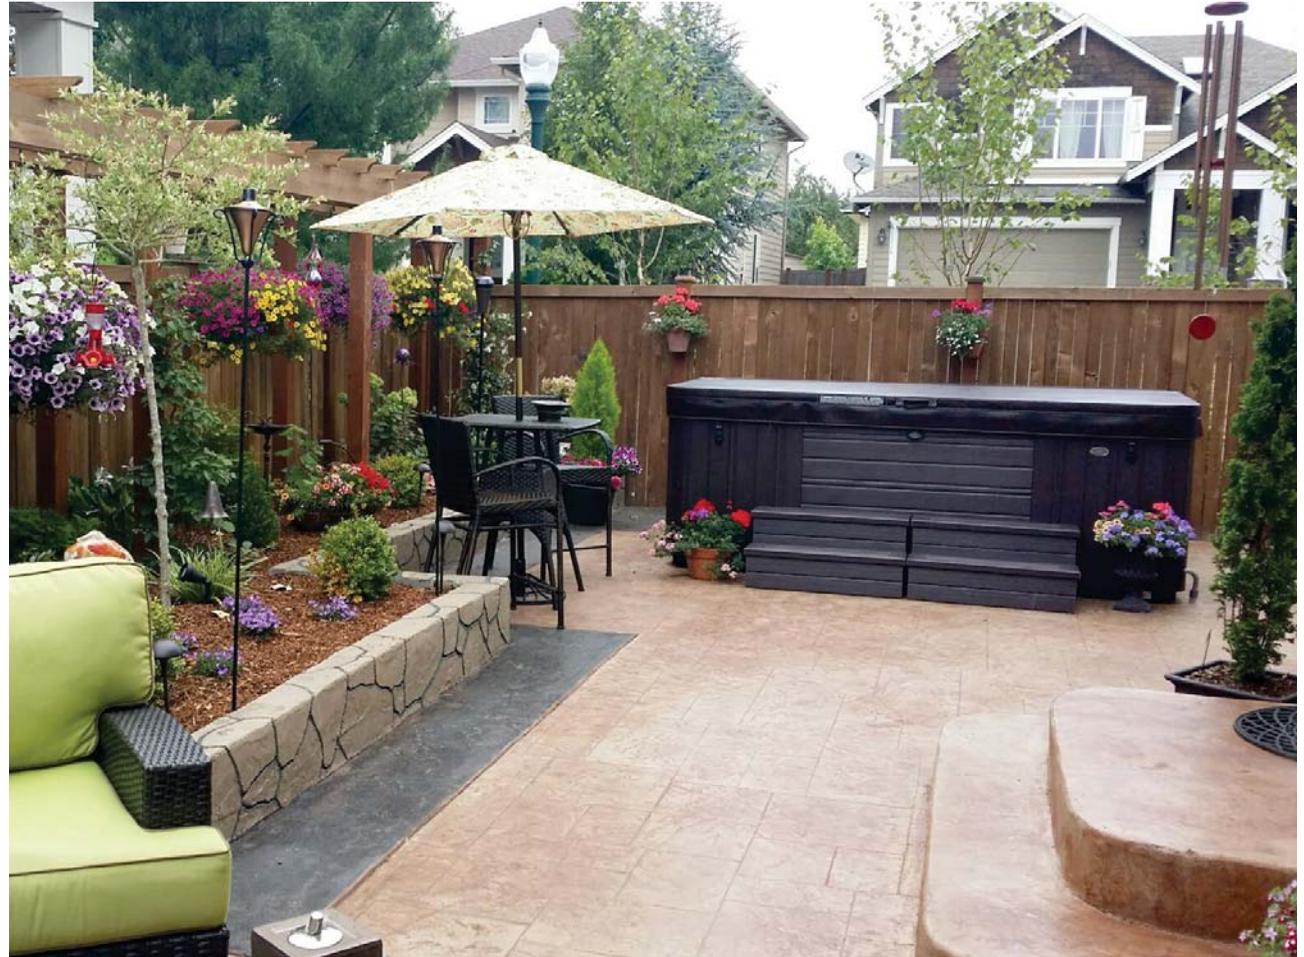

Dan | Oakton, VA

A place to grow

A garden provides perhaps the perfect setting for your Caldera Spas hot tub. From this vantage point, you can both look out at the blooming peonies—the fruits of your spring planting efforts—and experience your own sort of inner blossoming. That's what comes naturally when you take time out from daily stresses.

Michael | Covington, WA

Tree house hot tub

You put so much sweat equity into the house of your dreams. As you maintain it to ensure that all parts of it are looking good and working properly, your Caldera spa returns the favor by taking care of your physical aches and mental well being.

Brett | Bethesda, MD

Mountainside retreat

There's something about the fresh mountain air that gives you a renewed outlook. What better way to experience the changes in light and temperature – from the sensation of a warm rain to the frost of the first snow fall – than in the comfort of your Caldera spa?

Joe | Newburg, Pennsylvania

The aerial view

A famous, old-time baseball announcer often used the phrase “sitting in the catbird seat” to describe a player in an ideal situation. When this Caldera Spas hot tub settles into its rooftop nest, it’ll be the best seat in the house (or on the house)! This setting is the height of perfection for a hot tub.

My backyard project

Once you experience the positive changes that come with daily hot tub use, you'll understand why Caldera spa owners refer to their backyard hot tub as a retreat (emphasis on the "treat"). Once a project like this is complete, it's the hot tub owner who becomes "centered" each day.

Chuck | West Linn, OR

Into the wild

As you relax tired muscles, become more flexible and calm, a hot tub can also release the stress that settles in above your shoulders. A spot like this one becomes the perfect place to detach from the concerns and constraints of the day and let your imagination run free.

Valerie | Charlotte, NC

Lake view moment

There are few ways a view like this one could be improved. Imagine watching the sun rise from this ideal hot tub location. As the day progresses, sunlight presents itself in various intensities. At the same time, tension disperses. Sore muscles become relaxed. Stress fades away.

Gary | Panora, IA

A new spa and a new life

Is it too much to suggest that a Caldera hot tub can change your life? We don't think so. Nor does this owner. Twenty minutes a day in your spa can help you feel more relaxed and more flexible, helping you approach each day from a fresh perspective.

Melissa | Oceanside, CA

A corner of the morning

Not all hot tubs are installed outdoors in the elements. Our 2-person hot tub, the Aventine[®], fits perfectly into the corner of this enclosed patio exposed only to the character of the changing light. It's the perfect hot tub choice that fits in this perfect location.

Richard | Orono, ME

 CalderaSpas[®]

Cowboy retreat

Once you own a Caldera spa, you get inspired to add your personal style to it. Set up your hot tub as a personal space or a social gathering spot, then complete the setting with the thematic décor of your own choosing.

Ronnie | Peyton, CO

 CalderaSpas®

My utopia

The StoneScape cabinet surround (found on Utopia® Series Geneva® and Niagara® models) helps this hot tub fit beautifully into its surrounding area, offering up the natural look of tumbled stone. And as an added bonus, StoneScape is also available with optional matching steps.

Mitchell | Smith River, CA

Winter warmth

Winter storms can induce chills and shivering that make muscles tense and fatigued. With a Caldera Spas hot tub, you can experience the beauty of winter and let your tension melt away. Hot tubbing on a snowy day or night is a wonderful way to warm up and feel renewed.

Ben | Scappoose, OR

Spring showers

Enjoy the relaxing sound of the Caldera waterfall feature to enhance the tranquil setting. The sound of running water helps relax your mind just as the hot tub jets relax your body.

Liam | Rocky Hill, CT

Room to breathe

Spending time outdoors in your hot tub, especially in the peaceful setting you've carved out for yourself, helps you take your stress level down several notches. Breathe in, breathe out, and take in the view. It's a simple daily meditation that can enhance your well-being.

Jill and Chip | Georgetown, IL

Light up the night

Just because it's dark outside doesn't mean it's time to go indoors. Even in those months when the sun sets before the work day ends, your Caldera Spas hot tub keeps the nighttime alive with an array of beautiful lighting options.

Bill | Coronado, CA

A step up

Ordinarily we recommend that spa owners purchase a set of steps with their hot tub, making it easy to get in and out. In this case the owner has taken the concept of steps to the next level. We love how this project shows that a bit of imagination and effort can make a beautiful spa even more extraordinary.

Robert | Del Mar, CA

Waterfall with a view

Sometimes the ideal spot for a Caldera hot tub has more to do with the view. A wide-open space and a distant mountain range can enhance your hot tub enjoyment and help you appreciate your personal quiet time.

Alysa | Blountsville, TN

Our family retreat

A hot tub space like this one can create an open and comfortable “safe zone” for teens and parents to open up and communicate freely. At a time when we’re too easily distracted by our digital devices, it’s important to find time to reconnect with one another.

Nadean | Huntington Beach, CA

Patio getaway

We've learned that Caldera spa owners who place their hot tub near an entrance to their home use their spa more frequently, and more frequent spa use helps people fully appreciate the benefits of warm water therapy. When you own your own spa, a quick getaway is always just a few feet outside your door.

Lisa | Ocoee, FL

I love my Caldera spa

We're delighted when Caldera spa owners express how much their hot tub means to them. And we're proud to create a product that helps people develop daily habits that foster personal well-being and positive change.

Bobbie | Lafayette, OR
